BURGLARS RAID JEWELRY STORE

Force Entrance From Rear and Carry Away Goods Valued at $700

After a quiet spell of four weeks, burglars became active again this morning and carried out a bold job on Congress street at the jewelry store of Paul M. Harvey. The entrance was made from the rear of the store and the thieves worked a new process in the game.

With an inch bit they bored several holes in the thick panel of the door large enough to get an arm through to remove the bolt. The door was fastened with two bolts, two feet apart, and it was necessary to use the bit in two places.

Once inside, they extinguished the light left burning by the clerk when closing on Monday night and went to work with pocket search lights.

All the articles taken were from the trays in the show cases and was mostly of silver. Mr. Harvey, the proprietor, is at present in New York, and it is not known at present just exactly how much was stolen. The Herald man was informed at the store this morning that the amount taken would very likely value $700. It is thought that the robbery was committed after 4 o'clock this morning, when the night patrolmen concluded their duties. It is evident that it was not the work of professionals from the fact that they did not work the safes where the best stock is stored.

In order to get into the alley in the rear of the store, a large high gate was also forced open.

The light burned in the alley close to the door of the store was extinguished and it appears that the crooks had the situation well in hand when they began operations.

GERMANS BRING BRITISH PRIZE SHIP INTO NORFOLK

Liner Appam, Thought to Have Been Lost, Captured By German Armed Tramp Steamer

(Special to The Herald)

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 1.—The British liner Appam which was reported to have been lost off the African coast, arrived in port today as a German prize of war. It was reported that when the Appam steamed into port with a German prize crew on board and the German flag at her mast-head that she had been captured by a German submarine, but several hours later it was learned that she had been taken by an armed German tramp steamer. The capture was made off the Canary Islands and the vessel crossed the Atlantic, a distance of about 4,200 miles with a prize crew on board and a German commander on the bridge.

January 16, four days after the Appam left port she was overhauled by a swift but disreputable tramp steamer near the Canary Islands. The tramp, which was recognized as German, opened fire, signalling the Appam to heave to. The Appam tried to flee but the shells from the tramp began falling on board and when several persons have been wounded it was decided to give up.

When the German sailors boarded her they boasted that they had sunk seven other British ships and had 138 prisoners on their ship. After a solemn ceremony the Appam was taken to the Appam and put a prize crew on board and sent for the U. S. Norfolk seemed to offer the best haven and the British ship was headed in that direction. In the meantime Lieut. Berg had all of the passengers and men searched and took their weapons away. They were then drawn up and addressed by him. He told them they would not be harmed if they offered no resistance. As the Germans were all heavily armed and maintained the strictest watch, the passengers remained quiet. The name was then painted out and a German was placed in charge of the wireless. When the steamer was turned toward the U. S., the tramp conveyed her for some distance until they overtook a British freighter which was sent to the bottom by shells from the tramp. Four of the crew of the Appam are seriously injured.

It is rumored in shipping circles that the tramp which captured the Appam is the mysterious raider which had been operating in the Gulf of Mexico some time ago.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Commander Berg, in charge of the German prize crew on the Appam, at noon communicated with Ambassador Von Bernstorff as follows: "I have the honor to report that I arrived at Hampton Roads with prize ship Appam. I have on board four hundred passengers, among them the governor of Sierra Leone. Also many sacks of mail and 3,000 tons of goods. Signed, Berg."

Prince Hatzfeldt, counselor of the embassy will go to Norfolk to protect the German interests there.

The Appam was on her way north from Senegal on the west coast of Africa, bound for Plymouth with a score or more of passengers and a general freight cargo when she was held up by the German tramp and taken to the surprise of the commander and those on board who expected to be taken off and the ship sunk, the German commander placed a prize crew on board and the ship's course was changed for this country.

This is the first British ship that has been captured by the Germans since the war began, as hitherto all of the merchantmen that have been held up have been sent to the bottom, with few exceptions. This was because the German ports were closed to the prizes if they were taken. The new policy will add a new menace to the British merchant marine as the long cruising ability of the tramp is such that it is liable to bob up in any part of the ocean and take British or French ships.

The Appam was reported on January 28 in cable dispatches from London as being given up for lost, being long overdue and the fact that the steamer Tregantel, upon her arrival in Hull, England, reported picking up a badly damaged life boat of the Appam.

The Appam was built in Belfast, 1913 and is of 7773 tons and she is valued along with her cargo as being worth over $1,500,000.

The arrival of the prize will mean that she must remain here until after the war is over, and her crew will also be interned. It may start an international question to add to the many that the state department is already struggling under.

BULLET WAS FIRED FROM THE FRONT

New Evidence in the Mohr Case Hurts Heals' Story of the Murder.

(Special to The Herald)

Providence, Feb. 1.—The Mohr plot thickened today. That the bullet through the breast that caused the death of Dr. Mohr was fired from the front was the testimony of Otto A. Faust of the Rhode Island hospital where Dr. Mohr and Miss Berger were taken. Faust used the official chart, recording the condition of the man and girl when they were brought in. This testimony was aimed to refute the evidence that the shots came from the rear or side of the car.

The Mohr case was without a thrill until just before recess when Mrs. Mohr rested her case. She closed her defense and made way for witnesses in behalf of the negro defendants. Faust was the first witness called.

SUBMARINE K5 SAFE OFF KEY WEST

Steaming South and No Assistance Required--Will Reach Port This Evening

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, Feb. 1.—The missing submarine K-5 is safe. The underwater craft is steaming south and will reach Key West at 6 o'clock tonight. In a wireless dispatch from the U. S. destroyer Sterrett, Lieut. Simpson in command, says that the submarine is all right and that no assistance is required. The message to Secretary Daniels is as follows: "U. S. Sterrett, via Key West wireless—K-5 reported off Povey Rock, 140 miles north of Key West, steaming south at 20 knots. No casualties and no assistance required. Signed, Simpson."

ocean by a German prize crew, was reported to President Wilson while he was en route from Chicago, and while he made no comment it was stated that he considered that this might mean that Germany was going to do everything possible to conduct her ocean warfare along the lines demanded by the United States. It was also thought that the action of the Germans bringing the Appam into an American port might foreshadow a favorable reply from Germany on the Lusitania, although it was also pointed out that it was possible that the German government had not been in communication with the tramp steamer and in all probability is still in ignorance as to the capture and fate of the tramp or the Appam.

IRELAND HAS MADE A GOOD SHOWING

London, Feb. 1.—From the beginning of the war to January 3 the results raised by Ireland numbered 26,377, according to the report of Lord Wimborne, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland published tonight. He estimates that at the present time there are about four hundred thousand untrained single men of military age in Ireland, but deducting those indispensable for agriculture, commerce and the production of munitions and those medically unfit for service, he says the single men actually available would exceed one hundred thousand.

LOST HIS SHOE IN THE MUD

Special Officer Smith arrested a young boy at the docks of the Consolidation Coal Company early this morning while in the act of stealing coal. The lad with his bag took it on the run and in his flight one of his shoes got stuck in the mud. This interfered with his speed and the cop brought him to the station with one kick gone.

President Left Chicago This Morning--Will Make Several Train-End Speeches.

(Special to The Herald)

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 1.—Standing on the rear platform of his special train, facing a battery of cameras, in the glare of a dozen flash lights, President Wilson bade good-bye to Chicago at 10 a. m. today as he started the second part of his swing around the middle West. A large crowd gathered in the cold to catch a glimpse of the president and Mrs. Wilson, as they left the Blackstone hotel and another crowd greeted him at the railroad station. Just before departing announcement was made that the train would stop at Joliet, Ottawa, Moline, and Rock Island, and that President Wilson would make brief train-end speeches.

THREE GIVEN LIFE SENTENCES IN MAINE

Judge Connolly Passed Maximum Sentence—All Convicted of Murder.

Portland, Me., Jan. 31—Judge Connolly in the superior court this morning sentenced Joseph Jackson to imprisonment for life for the murder of William B. St. John. Alexander McLean who was indicted with him, but who turned state's evidence was allowed to plead guilty of manslaughter and was given not less than ten or more than 20 years with a recommendation of the maximum.

Peter Valla and Louis Pulos were given life sentences for the murder of Charles E. McIntosh.

The three men who received life sentences were apparently unmoved. They knew in advance what the sentences must be.

James Black and Harry Harris who were indicted together for conspiracy to commit larceny were sentenced, Black for one year and six months, to three years and Harris from one to two years.

George L. Crockett for larceny on one count, was given from two to four years in state prison with a recommendation by the court that the sentence be the maximum. An indictment for receiving stolen goods against his mother, Carrie E. Crockett, was not pressed.

John A. Hamel was given from four to eight years for swindling, and the court recommended the maximum sentence. He claimed to be the captain of a tug and obtained money on bogus checks.

Patrick O'Donnell was sentenced to six months in jail for non support.

Herbert Green was given from two to four years for passing worthless checks. Timothy J. Collins was sent to jail for eight months for breaking a gas meter. Timothy Laron was given a full sentence of three months for larceny of poultry. Chester Williams was next given a state prison sentence of from two to four years for breaking, entering and larceny. Jesse J. Quinn and John R. Kelley were given a full sentence of ten months each for assault.

IAS SUMMER HOME AT RYE BEACH

Mr. O. L. Halsey, who has taken over the Chalmers Motor Company of Massachusetts with headquarters in Boston, is well known here. He has passed his summers at Rye Beach for several years and was for six years in charge of the Packard agency in St. Louis. He married Miss Martha Fuller, sister of Alvin T. Fuller, who owns a fine summer estate at Rye Beach. Mr. Halsey is a member of the Algonquin Golf Club, and personally very popular with the members.

LONGFELLOW HOME IS SAVED

Birthplace at Portland Safe for a Year at Least.

Portland, Me., Jan. 31—The Longfellow birthplace was saved today by an agreement between the International Longfellow Association and Louis Waxman, a tailor, who holds the second mortgage on the estate, and who was to take possession.

Arthur C. Jackson, the president, who occupies the house of 20 rooms, stated tonight that the "birthplace" was saved to posterity.

Mr. Waxman said he had taken possession of the house, as was his legal right, but that he had permitted Jackson to occupy the place as a tenant, the rent to apply in case after a year the association could raise the money to lift the mortgage.

The feature of the whole business is the refusal of the Longfellow family to become interested in the house and the historical society has completely disowned Mr. Jackson's association.

Mr. Jackson declared last night:

"The house is occupied by the society." He later said that he is the sole occupant, except for help. He added: "The house is to be saved by a monthly payment on the mortgage and it will not be allowed to lapse."

Mr. Waxman when seen at his tailoring shop said: "I have been as lenient as possible and have given these people every opportunity to make good. I have a right to the estate with the three buildings on it, one of which is the Longfellow birthplace. I have already taken possession of the other two buildings. The association has waived its legal right to the Longfellow birthplace. It no longer owns it at all, but may, however, redeem it at the end of a year, according to the Maine law. However, if they fail to pay rent, they, or rather Mr. Jackson, must get out."

The Longfellow family has entirely disavowed any interest in the birthplace, since the old Longfellow home, on Congress street, is carefully preserved with all the family relics, utensils and furniture.

A mere accident, by which Longfellow's mother was staying at the old Stevenson mansion, caused this latter place to become Longfellow's birthplace. The poet lived there but a very few months and was brought up in the Congress street house.

The confusion resulting from two "Longfellow houses" has caused all kinds of ill-feeling and the trouble is getting worse. The old mansion adjoins the historical library and is excellently preserved, the admission fees of visitors suffering for the upkeep.

NOONE GOING AFTER REED

Claims He Is Using Steam-roller Tactics in State Politics.

Concord, Jan. 31—Former Congressman Albert W. Noone who has returned from Washington today issued a statement charging former Congressman Eugene H. Reed with being an exemplar of "steam roller" political methods and intimating that the object of Mr. Reed is to eliminate Senator Henry P. Hollis as well as the Peterborough statesman himself from New Hampshire politics. The ex-congressman who stands pat on his nomination of former Governor Samuel D. Parker for the U. S. supreme court, regardless of the appointment of Louis D. Brandeis by President Wilson.

"I read in the newspapers," said Mr. Noone, "a statement to a reporter for the Washington Post by our former Congressman Eugene H. Reed, in which he states that he is a great power in New Hampshire, state, and national politics, also that he is depending upon a certain gentleman to elect him to Congress next fall, which means that when the election for senator comes around two years hence, he will defeat our present senator and elect one of his own choice."

"This is, or at least closely resembles a purpose to defeat the honored Democracy of this state and to put up men of 'steam-roller' politics."

"Our state, today, needs clear-headed men to help politics in what it may, men who are big, broad and possessed of the ability to build up American industries and labor and put them on a higher level than ever before."

"The state and nation require efficiency in every department and big men are required to meet the situation. We must eliminate cheap politicians and introduce bigger and broader men of the Democratic party, not only of New Hampshire but of the whole nation will stand the test for the future."

"I have not changed my mind regarding the judgment. The appointee should have come to New Hampshire. We have bright men from Coos to the sea and our leading Democrats should strive to have our state represented on the supreme bench."

WOLGAST AND McFARLAND, FORMERLY GREAT PUGILISTS, TO BRANCH OUT IN OTHER LINES

Chicago, Feb. 1—Press indications are that the boxing world will never see Ad Wolgast, the former champion lightweight and boxing McFarland, the crack local light welterweight with the gloves on again. Wolgast recently announced he was through with the milks and from now on would devote the greater part of his time to farming. Ad has one of the largest farms in Michigan, out in Cadillac. McFarland recently promoted a bike race here and he states he intends to promote a number of other events from now on. Wolgast was recently offered a battle with Mike Gibbons but turned down the offer. Photo shows the two pugilists shaking hands and wishing each other good luck in their new lines. Wolgast is shown on the left of the picture, McFarland on the right.

NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE STILL UNSETTLED

Boston, Jan. 31—A reconvened meeting of the New England League was held yesterday afternoon at the Quincy House. Eight clubs are represented.

President T. H. Mumme said that conditions in the league and the Eastern Association were in bad shape last fall and that the national board appointed a committee, with full power to look into the trouble and recommend such changes as were deemed necessary.

The report of the committee aimed to look into a proposed merger of the New England and Eastern Leagues was read by Louis Phipps of the Lynn club. The report of the arrangements with Pittsburgh, Manchester and Lowell was then discussed. Lowell backed out on a proposal to give a liberal interest to Messrs Smith and Kernan and those interested in the merger will pay the Manchester people a sum of money instead.

Messrs Marshall and Clavery of Haverhill put in a claim for the Pittsburgh club, on the ground that the franchise had not been fully paid for. This matter, it was decided, concerned the estate of D. J. Noonan of Pittsburgh and not the league, as the Pittsburgh club is in good standing.

The report of the treasury was found to stand $9.66, with the money paid in and the money paid out even up and all dues paid.

The next meeting will be held following the important report from John H. Farrell concerning the New England-Eastern territory.

TO STOP GENERAL DELIVERY ABUSE

Postoffice Department Issues New Regulations.

Owing to the steady increase in the amount of mail called for at the general delivery departments in post offices, the attention of postmasters has been called by a circular letter from the office of the postmaster general to the rules and regulations governing the distribution of mail from the general delivery department instead of by the regular carrier system.

The general delivery was devised for the convenience of transient or traveling public and summer tourists having no permanent address in a city where they may be staying temporarily.

Under the rules of the postoffice department persons having a permanent address or resident in any city are not generally conceded the use of the general delivery department but are to have the mail delivered by the regular carriers to their street and number.

If adults having permanent residences and addresses desire to take advantage of the general delivery department they are under the rules required to make application for the privilege in a form provided for that purpose and to state the reasons for desiring the general delivery instead of the regular carrier service.

If the reasons given are deemed sufficient, the applicants may be allowed use of the general delivery.

Although not devised for the purpose, the rule has been found to work most successfully in preventing to a great degree clandestine correspondence between minors and irresponsible persons or individuals who may be objectionable to parents. Mail will not be delivered to minors from the general delivery department except upon specific instructions of their parents.

Although not of late there has been in the past a prevalence among young girls to seek mail addressed to them at the general delivery of the local postoffice. The rule was rigidly enforced. The mail in such cases where the proper name of the addressee is used is delivered by the regular carrier system to the address of the parents.

Mail addressed to fictitious persons or firms bearing only initials will not be delivered through the general delivery. In instances where fictitious names are suspected postmasters may require identifications of the addressee before delivering the mail.

DISCUSSED PLANS FOR ARMY AND NAVY HOME

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers of Army and Navy Association Held Monday Afternoon.

At the annual meeting of the Army and Navy Association, held Monday afternoon in the office of Judge Calvin Page, officers were elected for the ensuing year and plans for the proposed club building were looked over and discussed. Practically all of the officers of the Seamen's Friend Society were elected to the several positions in the Army and Navy Association so that the two organizations may work in unison for the project.

It was learned last evening that there was no reorganization of the two associations as was thought likely, but they will remain distinct, only working together. This arrangement will allow the Seamen's Friend Society to aid in the support of the building as according to the laws of the state they are not permitted to hold the property needed to the Army and Navy Association by the city, although the property was practically purchased by them, the city in reality donating but $1600 toward the purchase price.

Judge Calvin Page, who has been acting clerk of the Association, refused to accept a re-nomination, stating as his reason the lack of time necessary for the work.

Several sets of plans were looked over and it is probable the next meeting will see some plans accepted, when they will be placed on exhibition. The work of starting the erection of the proposed building at the corner of Daniel and Chapel streets will be commenced and the building should be ready for use before next winter.

The officers elected are:

Clifford W. Bass, president.
Dr. W. Hartford, vice president.
Dr. Lucius H. Thayer, D. D., vice president.
John K. Bates, treasurer.
Rev. Alfred Gooding, clerk.
Directors, Mrs. H. W. Patten, Mrs. J. J. Berry, Mrs. Ruth Spillney, Chief Deacons William L. Hull, U. S. N., Ernest L. Chaney, Dr. Fred S. Bowie, Rev. Alfred Gooding, John K. Bates, W. W. Lyndon, J. O. Hobbs and Captain William L. Howard, U. S. N.

COAL MINERS AND OPERATORS MEET IN IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

JOHN P. WHITE, ONE OF TWO TYPICAL COAL MINERS.

On Feb. 10 a joint conference of coal mine workers and operators will meet in New York. President John P. White of the United Mine Workers of America has declared that the conference will be one of the most important held in the coal mining industry in years and will affect more than 75,000 workers. Demands of the mine workers formulated last fall are for a 20 per cent wage increase.

CRAFT BOY HELD WITHOUT BAIL FOR MURDER OF BABY

HEARING HELD IN JUDGE'S LOBBY AT ROXBURY COURT OWING TO YOUTH OF DEFENDANT.

Boston, Jan. 31.—Sixteen-year-old Harold Craft, said to have confessed to the killing of his 2-year-old cousin, Arthur Kerr, by beating her last Saturday in her home, was held without bail by Judge Ferriss in the Roxbury court today following a hearing in the judge's lobby. It is understood the boy said today he struck the infant with a piece of kindling wood and with a towel.

He told the judge, it is said, that his reason for hitting her was that she would not mind him.

The boy was taken to the Roxbury court from his cell, where he had been closely guarded in fear he might attempt to end his own life. He was placed in the dock with the other prisoners and waited his turn, talking little with others in the dock.

When his name was called he was taken into the judge's office, being a juvenile, and after the clerk read the complaint, charging him with murder, Judge Ferriss explained to him his rights in the case.

The boy, whose home is in Roxbury, spent his second night in a cell at the West Roxbury police station last night. He was taken there from Weymouth, where he gave himself up to the police late Saturday night.

The funeral of the little victim of Craft's alleged cruelty will be held tomorrow at the home of her parents, 41 Stimson street, Germantown. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery, West Roxbury.

Aside from some restlessness young Craft seemed to show little concern over his plight yesterday. He ate two hearty meals.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count off! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffing, sneezing, mucous discharge, dryness or headache! No struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up and miserable. Relief is sure.

GERMAN SOLDIER THREE DAYS IN A BRITISH POSITION

Berlin, Jan. 31.—The German General Staff reports that Otto Hordel of Neustettin, a private of one of the Prussian Reserve Battalions on the western front, has earned the Iron Cross by a daring escapade. The soldier spent three days and nights in a British position and finally got back unharmed to the trenches of his company. During the entire time he was without food. The private was on the firing line with his company when he received orders to reconnoitre the nearby English positions. About two o'clock in the morning he left his trench and cautiously crept over the level ground. He reached a small earth work of the enemy and jumped into a shell crater near the fortification.

A moment later the British sent up some rockets and by the light of them the soldier discovered that he was before one of the main positions of the enemy and had practically entered it. He could not retreat, but to obtain better shelter he crept into a trench which was not occupied at that time. Without food or water he had to stay where he was.

In the meantime daylight came and he had to lay entirely still, to avoid being discovered. For twelve hours he did not stir. When night came again an English listening post of three men approached the wire entanglements.

FAMILY OVERCOME BY STRANGE GAS

Boston, Jan. 31.—An amazing attempt to kill a whole family by poisoning through the letter slot acids which generated noxious gas came to light this afternoon in Malden.

Henry Wischusen, his wife, his daughter Ethel and his son, Henry Jr., were overcome by the gases; and a doctor who worked over them for two hours in the work of resuscitation, also suffered effects.

Black Hand Threats

Black Hand letters, which Wischusen had received, furnish the police with their only intimation as to the responsibility for the crime.

Wischusen and his family went yesterday to spend the day with his mother in Melrose. He is an electrician in Malden and lives at No. 13 O'Brien street. His mother is Mrs. Lavina Wischusen.

The family returned to the Malden home at 8:30 Sunday night and were in one of the front rooms of the house when they detected a peculiar odor.

A moment later, at about 9 o'clock, the little boy, two and a half years old, suddenly fainted.

Mr. Wischusen became alarmed and telephoned for a physician. He had scarcely left the phone when the daughter, Ethel, also collapsed.

Wischusen at once telephoned another doctor a hurry call. Mrs. Wischusen worked to revive the two children. But she began to feel weak, and after a little time she also fainted.

Hurry Call for Police

Wischusen himself began to feel the effects. He worked frantically over his wife, without success, and when he felt his own collapse coming he snatched the telephone and sent an emergency call to the police.

The police responded in the motor patrol. They were unable to get any answer when they rang the doorbell and so they broke in the door.

They found Mr. and Mrs. Wischusen and the two children unconscious.

About that time Dr. Earl H. MacMichael arrived. Other physicians were hastily summoned. One of them remarked:

"There's mighty funny smell here. 'Maybe that has something to do with it,' the police suggested.

So they threw open the windows. But by that time Dr. MacMichael had begun to feel the effect of the gases.

Got Black Hand Letters

He was forced to leave the house and for two hours was semi-conscious, staying in the open air. After about two hours work, the four stricken ones began to show signs of reviving. At the end of three hours, all four were conscious again.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Wischusen are apparently none the worse, but the two children show ill effects.

Mr. Wischusen told the police that for some time he had been receiving Black Hand letters, threatening to kill him. This led the police to search the house carefully. Under the letter slot in the front door they found this morning a spot stained by some acid, which they believed had been thrown or poured in through the letter slot. The acid had completely evaporated. It was impossible to judge what its nature had been.

Mr. Wischusen told the police that after receiving the Black Hand letters for some time he became alarmed and hired detectives to work on the case.

They discovered nothing, but for two weeks they remained on guard in the house. A few days ago, he decided the threats were a bluff, and dismissed the detectives.

The police today were prosecuting a vigorous investigation of the case. They had made sure there were no leaky gas pipes in the house, and no other trouble that might have caused the near-tragedy.

What sort of acid could have been used they were unable to say.

AMERICA NOT MENTIONED BY JAPANESE

Tokio, Jan. 31, by mail.—The Diet has just adjourned after a three weeks session in which the feat was achieved of not mentioning America, or California question, or any of the grievances which Japanese politicians cherish against the United States.

This striking omission is not due to any change of heart, but to the fact that England is the whipping boy just now, and the Anglo-Japanese alliance, the favorite bugbear of the politician who plays to the gallery. Many people here begin to be afraid that Japan backed the wrong horse in the war, and prognostications are being made of a future alliance between Russia, Japan and Germany.

After the recess, which ends January 20, another vote of censure will be introduced by the opposition party in which the agreement not to enter into a separate peace with Germany will be attacked and the foreign policy of supporting the Entente Powers generally challenged.

The coming visit of the Grand Duke George Mikhailovich, uncle of the Czar of Russia, bringing with him the Czar's congratulations on the coronation for the Emperor, and the jewels of the Order of St. Catherine for the Empress, has caused the Japanese newspapers to come to the conclusion that the distinguished envoy has a more serious mission than compliments and jewelry.

Some striking comment on the approaching visit appears in the Kokumin, a newspaper conducted by a brilliant and highly connected Japanese who is a member of the House of Peers. He declares that a Russo-Japanese rapprochement forms the key to Oriental policy. The friendship of the two nations will increase, he predicts, and with Russia and Japan co-operating in the northern portion of eastern Asia, and England and Japan co-operating in the southern portion, the "peace of the Orient" is assured.

Oriental problems, however, he says, must be solved with Japan as the center. The Journal reminds the august visitor that at the commencement of the war Germany hoped that Japan would stab Russia in the back, but Japan declined to be such a backstabber and supported Russia with everything in her power except troops.

The visit will lead to a revival of the rumors that a Japanese expedition to Europe is contemplated. On two previous occasions these rumors have been circulated, the overtures being made in the first place by the French press and in the second by the Russian. The Japanese public likes to flatter itself that its invincible army is coveted by their powerful neighbors, but no official request has ever been made, directly or indirectly, for Japanese troops, by any of the belligerents.

To send a force of half a million men and keep it in the field at war strength would absorb Japan's entire trained army. There are not transports in the world, available at present to ship such an immense force to Europe. Japan does not care to see the prestige of her armies tested in a struggle with Germany. The Japanese army is permeated with sympathy with Germany, whose military system it is modeled on. Though the Japanese people are docile in the extreme, the government hardly dares to test their obedience by sending them in thousands to perish fighting for a cause in which they are only slightly interested.

The matter was discussed and vetoed by the present Japanese cabinet early in the war, and the recruiting of a volunteer force which had been started by some enthusiasts was put down.

If the Grand Duke's visit has military significance it is more likely to be connected with the supply of munitions for Russia up to the limit of her plant power. She cannot extend that plant owing to the impossibility of getting early delivery of machine tools.

Apart from new manufacture, however, she is known to have a large stock of rifles of new pattern and if she could be induced to deplete her own reserves Russia would be able to equip a few more armies.

The drawback is Japan's determination not to be caught unprepared by developments in China. She interrupted her deliveries of munitions to Russia in the spring because of the chance that China might refuse the "demands" and since China is after all of more importance to Japan than anything else, it is unlikely that she will run any risks to please a Grand Duke.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder is troubling you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

The Qualities That Win.

James H. Hustis, president of the Boston & Maine railroad, delivered a lecture a short time ago before an eastern college. He took for his subject "The college man and the railroads," and in the course of his lecture he told the students before him some things which may well be borne in mind by such as have any intention of engaging in the railroad business.

The first fact that he tried to impress upon their minds was that railroading is not a path to riches or glory. He said it affords hard work at fair compensation and an opportunity for every man to do his best and bring out what there is in him, but it is not the easy road to fame and fortune that many young men imagine it to be. Mr. Hustis said the railroad welcomes the young man with a college training, but that alone will not do the business. The man who succeeds in railroading must do so by his own ability and efforts. "In securing a position," said the speaker, "influence will not help, or at least it will not help in the end; for if a man is boosted into a position he must have the stuff behind him in order to hold it."

Those are true words and they apply to other callings as well as to the railroad business. The men who are doing the important work of the world along all lines are not those who have been placed in positions by influence or pull, but those who have worked their way in and up by hard knocks and steady application. There are cases in which young men are placed in positions for which they are not fitted, but they do not hold them long unless the powers that place them there remain behind them.

It is the workers who reach and stand at the front—on the railroads, in the banks, in the great commercial houses and in the factories. Some of them are college educated and some are not, but the men at the head are there because they have worked their passage to the top. There are railroad presidents who began at the brake, and there are bank presidents who began as messenger boys. True it is, as Mr. Hustis said, that to hold a good position a man "must have the stuff behind him."

A college education is a good thing and should be a great help to a man in any calling, but it cannot take the place of eternal hustle and the "get there EB" spirit which are the price of success today as never before.

It develops that a man who was arrested in New York the other day for begging in the streets is the owner of considerable property in Pennsylvania. He was accompanied by his young son, who said they managed to gather up from $5 to $15 a day. The boy was sent home and the man was very promptly sent to jail. The public is prepared to care for those who cannot take care of themselves, and street begging should be rigidly suppressed everywhere.

The railroads of the Southwest have stopped shipping money at night. Of late there have been too many hold-ups for comfort, and hereafter daylight will be good enough for trains on which large sums of money are transported. This will make the work of robbers more risky, but the experiences of banks every now and then show that even daylight is not an absolute guaranty of safety.

The demand for an eight-hour day on the railroads grows more insistent. If it comes it will place a large extra expense upon the roads, which in time will probably find a way to pass the burden along to the public, though this is not so easy as it would be were it not for the commissions which attend to one side of the railroad business while the unions are regulating the other.

Another nightmare has been broken up. The "German wireless station in Maine," over which there has been more or less uneasiness for some time, turns out to be the work of United States naval officers who were detailed to establish the station "without the knowledge of the department of commerce." Let us all proceed to breathe easier.

The American Federation of Labor did the right and decent thing by going to the aid of the Danbury, Conn., Hatters' Union, whose members' homes had been seized upon to satisfy a judgment against the union in a case growing out of a strike. Unionism was responsible for the trouble of these men, and it is only fair that it should stand the cost.

Ed Geers, the most famous horse trainer and driver in the country, is 65 years old and still on the turf. For many years he has driven winners in many of the greatest races in the United States, and the public will be glad to know that he is still in a condition to hold the reins over the fastest and best steppers that grace the track.

DEATH TOLL FROM THE EUROPEAN WAR

This Country's Share in the War Brought Out in Congress.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, Feb. 1.—The death toll the United States is paying for its peaceful part in the European war, was forcibly called to the attention of congress today in a resolution reported to the house by Rep. Byrnes of South Carolina, demanding information as to the wreck and cost that munition manufacture has brought to this country, charging that death and accident in the munition plants has been suppressed and men are lured to hazardous employment in the explosive factories, ignorant of the work. These facts are set forth in the resolution.

In many of these plants men are kept in a condition very close to slavery. Information received by Mr. Byrnes indicates that in many places, especially in Pennsylvania, Virginia and New England, the workers are herded in "bull pens" guarded by private detectives and refused liberties. Many of these men are foreigners who do not understand the English language, he has been told, and men without any experience whatsoever in the handling of high explosives are employed.

PEOPLES' OPINION

WHY PUT IT UP TO BOARD OF TRADE.

Editorial:

For the past five years or more we have continually been confronted with communications on the New England Veteran Firemen's muster with this and that reason for holding the affair in Portsmouth. In most every communication relating to this matter the citizens in general and the Board of Trade especially are asked to furnish the finances, or part of the same, for this gathering of veteran firemen and when another city is selected for the annual muster a great howl is heard against the Board of Trade because Portsmouth was not considered at the meeting of the executive board or who ever named the city for the muster.

As any sensible man knows the Board of Trade has not $1200 or $1500 in its treasury to bring handbills and men to Portsmouth for a day of pleasure and why put it up to that organization?

If the veteran firemen want an affair of this nature why do they not show some interest as a body themselves and use some of the money in their treasury and what they win on playbets to defray the expense of a water throwing contest and recreation for visitors?

As a member of the Board of Trade, I think the perpetual cry of "muster for Portsmouth" should be dropped unless there is a better chance of conducting it here than has been apparent since the last New England League gathering in Portsmouth.

CHAIRMAN, BOARD OF TRADE.

ARGUMENT ON NEW CASTLE BRIDGE.

Editorial:

To settle an argument between A. and B. will you kindly inform the writer through your paper if the Third New Castle bridge was ever swept away by storm or high tides. A says it was destroyed which led the government to build the present breakwater there.

B says the bridge has stood without injury or accident since it was built.

Wants Them to Dig Down

Editorial:

A writer touching on a firemen's muster for Portsmouth in The Herald of Monday appeals to the citizens to aid the veteran firemen in bringing the thing about.

If the veteran firemen are so anxious for a muster, let them dig down in their pockets and provide the money for the same as the regular department members were obliged to do when the celebration was held here last September.

"THE CLASH OF THRONES"

A Noble Treatment of War Topics in Sonnets by Henry Frank

Mr. Henry Frank's latest book is a volume of sonnets based on the great European conflict. The book is dedicated to "Woodrow Wilson, the Nation's Staff and Shield in Its Hour of Dire Need." The thirty-seven sonnets are a series of beautiful American expressions. Our best national ideals are correctly represented I think with the best possible American outlook. Mr. Wilson could hardly receive a more remarkable appreciation.

Two of the sonnets at least were printed in the Chronicle and Herald, before the publication of the series in book form. One of the finest of these

CURRENT OPINION

Enforced Short Rations Have Freed Belgium of Disease.

In Belgium we have the most remarkable example in history of the application of scientific principles and hygienic laws to the food problem of an entire people. The results have been marvelous. Undertakers are literally without work.

No one in Belgium today is dying of what one might call the diseases of intemperance and of civilization.

They have been driven out as completely as malaria has been driven from the Isthmus of Panama. The only cases of fatal sickness are cases of tuberculosis, cancer and that sort of thing, specific diseases contracted before the war. There is almost no influenza, no appendicitis, no auto intoxication.

That is what enforced temperance and short rations have done. This has resulted in decreasing the death rate beyond belief.—H. Horace Fletcher, Noted Food Expert.

new poems is addressed to President Wilson, eulogizing him on his admirable attitude in this appalling savagery of the old world. It is a splendid tribute to Mr. Wilson. It is addressed to American civilization as well. It does justice to the task of the President, in this stress of vicious interests, to keep us sane, whatever may develop. This is Mr. Frank's fitting tribute to the chief executive.

battled birth,

An orb prophetic of approaching calm.

III

Mr. Frank's purpose in the book and in the arrangement of the poems, is well expressed in his own prefatory

note: "In utilizing the European conflict of a theme for a sonnet series, the object of the author was not to write in mere generalizations, but to give the verses a certain historical value by incorporating, as far as possible in the poetic framework, the passing events, themselves. In this way they may depict a sort of poetic panorama of some of the great issues of the conflict." The title itself, "The Clash of Thrones," is an interpretation of this war.

The "Warring Nations" are each the subject of a sonnet, also "The United

under this section.

Ten of the sonnets are grouped under the section entitled "War's Horrors," and fourteen poems are devoted to expressions on "The Trend of Progress." The last section of the book is a "Chronology of Leading Early Events," selected from Nelson's Encyclopedia.

Mr. Frank's sense of historical accuracy causes him to add a paragraph on his views in these various subjects. "If there be a seeming inconsistency in the author's attitude between the sonnets depicting the earlier and later events, the explanation lies in the fact that his sympathies and reflections were qualified by the varying trend of the situations as the war proceeded."

But there is no real inconsistency. It is Mr. Frank's keen logic to see the changes. One cannot find better things said of this insane struggle than are said so effectively and timely in the sonnets, and just now, when

"At sorrow's banquet, whilst blanched Hope, though hushed, faints not, but glimpses Love's approaching day."

—JUSTIN HENRY SHAW.

AMERICA'S WAR WEALTH

(By Mrs. C. F. G. Masterman, in the London Daily Chronicle.)

In the days when Germany was the benefactor of mankind she gave the world the story of the Nibelungen legend, the Rheingold. Most of us know the story best through Wagner's operas. I forget the origin of the treasure. But it was stolen first by two brothers, one of them killed the other and became a dragon himself (the latter to defend it). When he was killed it passed from hand to hand, bringing strife, greed, jealousy, murder and disaster, till at last high heaven itself was set on fire and destroyed.

The Nibelungen legend has always been held as the symbol of wealth, of prosperity which is liable to make dragons of those that have it and raise every bitter passion in the hearts of those that are without it. And to divert wealth of its Nibelungen quality is one of the problems that has faced every nation at different times and it may frankly be said no nation has ever succeeded in solving it.

When England went to war she knew her commerce must suffer and since someone must profit at our expense, we are glad it is our kindred across the Atlantic.

But what will all this war wealth do for America and what will she do with it? She has made a magnificent beginning. But for her Belgium would now be depopulated by starvation. It is America that has kept her alive. And she has done much for the other martyrs of the war, Serbia.

Further I have no doubt individual rich men will do great public benefits, found hospitals, libraries, colleges, endow facilities for research. And I hope they will become a famous group for art patronage, as the wealthy cities of Italy and the Low Countries were at the time of Renaissance, and by art patronage, I mean giving their chance in contemporary artists, not making corners in old masters.

Before the war, so long and so short a time ago, when we in England had security and surplus wealth, what dreams we had, and how near they seemed to fulfillment. I am not saying we were entirely preoccupied with them. There was a great deal of folly and waste; in fact, the scale of expenditure of our fashionable classes was a monument of silliness. But we did hope our generation might see sweated labor go the way of chattel slavery and become portion and parcel of the dreadful past. We hoped to make a real onslaught on the slum. We had begun a campaign against tuberculosis and we were sketching out plans for easing the unnecessary aggravations of the pains of maternity that working women have to bear.

We hoped also to reduce our infantile mortality; to shorten the long list of the casualties of peace in our workshops and mines that no one thinks of calling a roll of honor.

And we shall strive for these things still; but it will be a hard business, with lost markets to recover and this great abyss of war debt under our feet—and we shall probably die not having seen their fulfillment.

But America! Will she give these dreams hospitality? Will she begin to establish as a rider to the ringing sentences that all men are born free and equal and principle that no labor necessary to the welfare of the state ought to carry with it any social or economic disability?

She also has great swamps of helplessness, hopeless poverty, largely among the masses of cheap labor that has come to her from Europe, driven away by misgovernment at home in many cases. If she cannot do everything will she do something? Will she tackle the "problem of factory legislation?"

In the North, child labor is in a disgracefully bad condition. "Tiny children" should be building their bodies and their minds in school, not in the factories, in what way does this square with the dogma of equality of opportunity?

And her list of industrial accidents is hideous. Will all these things go on forever and will all the gifts of destiny that open the field of human society remain forever unfenced against the straying of weakness or ignorance?

Is a big navy and a new bidder at the international auction of armaments all that this abundance of wealth is going to leave?

It would be such a magnificent irony if these profits of death could be transmitted into something of new life and new opportunity.

What the machinery should be—federal, state, municipal or private—these on the spot must judge. But I think few would doubt that a joint public sacrifice of wealth in time of "boom" for some public object is a wise method of placating possible resentment. Bismarck used to call it "the doctrine of ransom."

England at this moment resembles in a very curious way the condition of a human organism repelling bacterial poison. She is summoning her reserves of vitality, all her forces are working with feverish speed and activity. Go where you will you cannot avoid evidence of it for half an hour. But the analogy goes further. It is inevitable that during this concentrated effort the normal recuperative operations should be diminished or, indeed, should cease.

This means a long and complicated convalescence while the waste is repaired and the strength renewed. Hitherto our perplexities have been those of a wealthy country; they will become those of a poor one. We hope to see America take up the question of social reform where we left off. We hope when the last war debt is paid, that the nations of Europe will be able to turn to her for a great store of experience. But not only for this and not only for her own sake do we wish her good luck in the quest, but because the evolution of social justice is a hopeless problem, and the land where there is no decay, no lending into captivity and no complaining in the streets, has never till now been more than a dream.

NEW PROBLEMS
ARISE ON AFFAIR

State Department Considers It the Most Serious That Has Come Up Yet.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, Feb. 1.—What is expected to prove one of the most serious complications of the European war, so far as this country is concerned came up when the British merchant steamer Appam reached Norfolk in charge of a German prize crew. Her final disposition will present to this country a number of very serious problems. This is the first prize of the European war to enter a U. S. port.

Assistant Secretary Peters referred the entire problem to Secretary Lansing, although he had been in charge of this kind of work, but it was evidently too serious for him to handle.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

Memories of Fied Piper of Hamelin were recalled when half a million skins were auctioned off here.

The board of health has just issued a strong warning to smokers against using counter cigar cutters. They often convey very harmful germs, for some men wet the tips of the cigar before inserting it in the cutter.

Lady Abigail, speaking here, declared great bargains in Irish castles can now be purchased on account of the war.

NO WAY OF BUILDING WARSHIPS

Present Facilities Can Not Take Care of Present Ships Ordered.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The House Naval Affairs Committee was brought face to face today with the strong probability that even if it authorizes the battle ships, battle cruisers and other craft proposed in the administration's program there will be no facilities for building them. Thus far Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, has not indicated how the new vessels may be constructed.

Chief Constructor David S. Taylor, U. S. N., who was before the committee today, told the committee that the private yards were overwhelmed with private business, and that if they were to be induced to construct naval vessels for the government they must receive "adequate consideration." Mr. Taylor intimated the cost would be much higher.

In questioning Mr. Taylor, Representative Thomas S. Butler, of Pennsylvania, and Representative Patrick H. Kelley, of Michigan, developed the fact that there are now uncompleted a total of sixty-eight naval vessels, among which are nine battle ships. Two of these battle ships have only just been begun and one has hardly been started. The administration program calls for 65 ships of all classes.

"Some of these 65 uncompleted vessels have been authorized for five years, have they not?" asked Mr. Butler.

"They have," replied Mr. Taylor. "I am not for a bigger navy," shouted Mr. Butler. "If we are going to authorize ships, we ought to provide the means for building them."

Mr. Taylor said there were three battle ships in the yards which were about to be completed. These were the dreadnaughts Nevada, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania. The first two ships have had their trials and the Pennsylvania will have her trials the latter part of February. In addition the new dreadnaught Idaho will be launched in the spring.

The unfinished ships comprise 9 battle ships, 17 destroyers, 33 submarines, 2 fuel ships, 1 supply ship and 1 transport.

To take care of the increased construction, as far as the government is concerned, there are no ways that will be immediately available. At the New York yard new ways will be constructed, but they will not be ready for some time to come. At the Mare Island yard the ways, which now contain a fuel ship, will be free at the end of a few months. At the end of eight months or a year battle ship ways will be available at the League Island yard.

Constructor Taylor was unable to say when the various ships now under construction would be completed, but at the request of the committee he agreed to furnish a detailed estimate of the various dates, including the dates of the contracts and other matters.

He told the committee that he had made an investigation of the total capacity of the private yards for building large naval vessels and he estimated that the private and public yards, if driven to their fullest extent, could construct twenty-two ships at once. This would necessitate many improvements, however, in the existing ways, and enlarged apparatus as well.

HINKEY DEE

GIRLS MADE

A BIG HIT

EXCELLENT COMEDY COMPANY
AT THE PORTSMOUTH SCORED
BIG ON OPENING NIGHT.

The opening of the Portsmouth Theatre last evening was the signal for many of the old patrons to turn out and they gave Happy McNally and the Hinkey Dee girls a royal reception. The show presented by the company was well appreciated and should prove a big attraction all the week.

The entire company is excellent, the girls pretty and their dancing and singing was as fine a performance as has been seen here for some time. The comedy presentation last evening was "A Day at the Races" and was punctuated throughout with clever dancing, good comedy and excellent singing. The work of both Mr. Carroll and Mr. McNally was particularly fine in their comedy roles and their supporting company could not have been better.

"On the Way to the Races," "Moonlight," "The Dream I Had Last Night" and the eccentric dancing number by Carroll and McNally were four of the feature numbers that were heartily applauded.

The Herald is the most popular local newspaper in Portsmouth. If your friend does not read it regularly pass yours on and let him note what he is missing.

SCHOONER BAKER PALMER ABANDONED

Was Bound From Norfolk to Buenos Ayres With Cargo of Coal.

The schooner Baker Palmer, owned by J. S. Winslow & Co., of Portland, a frequent visitor at this port, has been abandoned at sea and her crew of fourteen men with Captain Percy F. Dunton of Boothbay Harbor rescued and taken to Buenos Aires by the ship Rhine of Boston. The Palmer was on her way from Norfolk, Va., for Buenos Aires with a cargo of coal.

The Palmer was built at Walboro, Me., in 1901, had a net tonnage of 2,792 and was valued at $70,000. For many years she was engaged in the coastwise coal carrying trade between New England ports and southern coal ports but like many other big sailing vessels had been chartered to go to South Africa with coal at the tremendous high freight rates offered at the present time because of the shortage of tonnage resulting from the European war.

KITTERY

Thirty relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Burnham gathered at their home on Woodlawn avenue, on Monday evening to help them celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. The evening was joyously passed with games and music. The latter being furnished by the Misses Irene Kramer and Josephine Wallis on the piano, and Miss Amelia Meyers on the violin. At this time Mrs. Alexander Dennett presented Mrs. Burnham with a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers, and Mr. Dennett presented her with a silver crown set with five stars, each star representing five years. Mr. and Mrs. Burnham were also the recipients of many other choice gifts of china and silver, including a half-dozen silver teaspoons from friends present. Mr. Burnham then responded in a neat speech, thanking all for the many pretty gifts given him and his wife. The guests then retired to the dining room and gathered around the table, where a delectable collation consisting of ice cream, assorted cake, candy, nuts and fruit was served. The party broke up at a late hour, closing with the song, "God be with you until we meet again." Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Burnham received the hearty good wishes of all for many more years of happy married life.

Miss Julia Duncan of Locke's Cove left this morning for Boston, where she will visit relatives. On Thursday evening she will attend the reunion of the Sons and Daughters of Kittery, to be held in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Burnham and young daughter returned today from Alfred where they have been passing the winter, and have reopened their home at Locke's Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones of Eliot passed Monday night in town the guest of friends.

At Sugrue's—Navy regulation sweaters.

The infatuated degree will be conferred on candidates at the regular meeting of Riverside Lodge 1, O. O. F., and all members of the degree staff will be present. A large attendance is expected.

Several from here are planning to attend the drama given at Grange hall, Eliot, on Friday evening, by the Senior Class of Eliot High school. A dance will follow.

The regular meeting of the Phoebes will be held in the vestry of the Second Christian church on Friday evening.

Captain and Mrs. William C. Locke of Locke's Cove passed today in York the guests of the latter's brother, J. B. Paul.

A very fine entertainment was given at the First Methodist church, North Kittery, on Monday evening. The program consisted of solos by Mr. Albert L. Sprague, reading by Mr. Raymond Pettigrew, an address on the West by Mr. Harry Longstaff, and the presentation of the sketch entitled "The Family Album." There was a very large attendance and a good sized sum was realized.

Mrs. Frank Fernald and Mrs. Ella Cole of South Eliot were visitors in town on Monday evening, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Burnham of Woodlawn avenue.

About 25 persons from the Foreside enjoyed a hayrack ride to North Kittery on Monday evening where they attended the entertainment at the First Methodist church.

On Thursday evening occurs the "Earn a Dollar" social held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid at the Second Methodist church. A fine musical and literary program has been prepared.

Miss Louise Newson of Perry Lane left this morning for a week's visit with relatives in Boston. On Thursday evening she will attend the reunion of the Sons and Daughters of Kittery, held in that city.

ENGLISH ROYAL NAMES.

The Present Reign, the House of Hanover, Started With George I.

The use of surnames was introduced into England by the Normans and for a long time were used only by the nobility. The earlier kings, therefore, had no claim of any sort to a family name, but are often designated by some quality, as Alfred the Great, Edgar the Peaceable, Edward the Martyr, etc.

Kings do not have family names which exactly agree with those of common people, their titles or estates more often giving them what corresponds to a surname. The kings from William the Conqueror to Stephen (1066-1154) were of the Norman line. The Plantagenets received their name from the adoption by Geoffrey, Count of Anjou, of the broom (plante de genet) as a insignia. This name was borne by the kings from Henry II. to Richard II. (1154-1485).

The Tudor line, which includes the rulers from Henry VII. to Elizabeth (1485-1603), received their name from Owen Tudor, a Welshman, who married the widowed queen of Henry V. and whose grandson was Henry VII. The Stuart line includes the rulers from James I. to Anne (1603-1702). The name is derived from the important office of steward to the royal household of Scotland.

The house of Hanover, whose family name is often given as Guelph, started with George I., of whom George V. is a direct descendant.—Philadelphia Press.

The Moth and the Flame.

The moth plunges headlong into its flames because of the way its body is constructed. There are two symmetrical points, exactly alike chemically, on the moth's body—namely, its eyes. If the rays of light modify the chemical condition of one side more than the other, then the moth's power of movement is affected. There is a stronger muscular tension on one side than on the other, and the moth is forced to move toward the source of light. If, however, one of the eyes is removed the chemical symmetry is destroyed and instead of plunging into the flame it moves about in a circle.

Third Plant Introduction Expedition Yields Promising Specimens—Jujube, Alkali-Resistant Wild Peach, and Marsh Vegetables of Interest—New Hardy Yellow Rose Discovered.

The third expedition into China to discover new plants suitable for introduction into the United States has been completed by F. N. Meyer, plant explorer of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, who has just returned to Washington after a three-year trip in the Far East. As a result of this expedition through the center of China, and two previous explorations of similar duration covering extremely cold Manchurian regions and the arid regions of Chinese Turkestan, there have been sent to America for planting and testing for commercial adaptability seeds, roots or cuttings of some 3,000 food and ornamental plants, flowers, shrubs and vines, shade and timber trees. The previous expedition brought to American specimens of many cold resistant and dry-land grain sorghums, soy beans, alfalfa, and forage plants and also certain semi-tropical plants, such as the bamboo, which are now under experimentation to determine their usefulness for the extreme south.

Of the many specimens forwarded to this country during the last expedition, the specialists regard as most significant the ju-jube, a fruit new to this country, which may be suitable for use in the Southwest; a wild peach resistant to alkali, cold, and drought, the root system of which offers great possibilities as a grafting host; certain Chinese persimmons larger than any hitherto known in this country; a number of aquatic food roots and vegetables for the utilization of swamp land; some thirty varieties of vegetable and timber bamboos; and a number of Chinese vegetables, bush and climber roses, shrubs and trees.

Of scientific rather than commercial interest is the discovery on this expedition, near Hangchow, of a hickory tree, the first found in China. The existence of this tree, together with the facts that the sassafras and tulip trees are common in both countries and the Chinese tea box tree is closely related to the sweet gum of the south, confirms the fact that the flora of the southeastern United States and that of sections of China are closely related. Another discovery of botanical interest was the finding in a remote and hitherto unvisited valley in Tibet of a hazel tree 100 feet high—a surprising departure from the hazel bush. Elsewhere English walnuts were discovered in a wild state; and the discovery of the wild peach is regarded as significant because it seems to establish that the peach may have been a native of China rather than of Persia, to which its origin has been ascribed. The discoveries of native and hardy oranges and other citrus fruits, a number of which have been brought to this country for breeding work, give added evidence that China was the home of the orange, which was introduced into other countries probably by early Portuguese travelers. Similarly many plants commonly ascribed to other countries, such as the vicia, chrysanthemum, lilac, azalea, and certain peonies and ramblers roses, have been developed by the Chinese, although, because they reach Caucasian use through other nearby stations, their Chinese origin often has been overlooked.

The first experimental exploration for new plants in China in 1905 was undertaken by the department because the wide range of climate, rainfall, elevation, and soil conditions in that immense country gave promise that the Chinese who had been farming successfully in some sections for 1,000 years might have found solutions for special difficulties which confronted American farmers in regions of excessive cold or drought or alkaline or swampy soils.

OBITUARY

Timothy C. O'Leary

After being ill but twenty-four hours of pneumonia, Timothy C. O'Leary of State street passed away at his home Monday afternoon about 5:00 o'clock. He was taken sick Sunday afternoon.

Mr. O'Leary was born in Ireland 40 years ago, the son of John and Catherine (Sheehan) O'Leary and came to this country with his parents when a child. Before coming here to Portsmouth he lived in Cambridge, Mass., where he was in charge of the stables of the West End Street railroad before the coming of the electric cars.

After coming to Portsmouth he was watchman for some years at the Government Ferry landing at the foot of Daniel street. Some two years or more ago he started in the job learning business which he continued to conduct until his death.

He is survived by a wife, two sons, John, who was in business with him and Timothy, a student; two brothers, Dennis and Michael, both of Boston; a sister and a brother in Ireland. He was a member of Division 2, A. O. U., and Court Rectification, Forerosters of America.

William S. Wright

Word was received here on Tuesday of the death of William S. Wright at the Staten Island hospital after a lingering illness. He was 15 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Wright of this city and after completing his early education he learned the drug business with W. D. Grace. Several years ago he went to New York and was of late connected with the aviation grounds at Staten Island. He is survived by a wife and one son, also his parents. The body will be brought to this city for services and interment.

Alice Virginia Fernald

Died February 1st at the Portsmouth hospital, Alice Virginia Fernald, aged 1 year, 10 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fernald.

WILL MAKE ARRESTS

Complaint is made by the railroad officials to the police that men from the navy yard train are jumping the wire fence in the rear of the depot, thereby destroying the same. The officers have been ordered to make arrests if the practice continues, and the railroad will prosecute in all cases.

THE HERALD HEARS

That bogus check men are busy across the river in York county.

That the Dover police board and city council will not establish coasting places for children.

That they claim they are prevented from doing so by law.

That a member of the 9 o'clock club says Leap Year may be O. K., but a ring on the finger is worth two in the jewelry store.

That the back signs are conspicuous.

That the Central Steam Laundry will soon be doing business at its new home on Hill street.

That some day the Portsmouth hospital will be in possession of what has been needed a long time, an X-ray outfit.

That this valuable apparatus should have been part of the equipment years ago.

That it is time for that Elliot man to announce early signs of Spring with the grasshopper story.

That the residents of Middle street trust they will not be obliged to put up with the conditions of that highway again this year.

That the people escaped without a serious accident there during 1915 and were lucky.

That the city has had enough law suits for one year and doesn't wish for any more.

That if Middle street is not put in some kind of decent shape it may lead to more trouble in the courts.

That a conductor on a street car line after critically examining a transfer, remarked to a fat, red-faced woman that the transfer had expired.

That with a withering look she answered, "No wonder; there isn't a ventilator open in your car."

That the city government meet this week.

That some of the municipal departments would like more room and more up-to-date quarters at city hall.

That it looks as if they would wait a while for the same.

That the Newington horsemen are still waiting for Jack's crow banquet.

That it is hoped history will not repeat itself in this case.

That we had a cold summer and are now having a warm winter.

That the writer of a magazine says that beer drinking makes a man how-legged.

That some brand of brew may have that effect in some places but we don't believe that it has the same effect here.

That it makes his legs unsteady if he hits enough of it.

That the city council will have an opportunity to confirm or disapprove of a candidate for the board of public works at the meeting on Thursday night.

COLONIAL THEATRE

Horse of Refined Vaudeville. Safety and Quality First.

Three better acts have never been seen in this city than those on the Colonial bill for the first half of this week. The trio, Canill, Goss and Clifton, come far above expectations, and they created a sensation last evening with their classy songs and dances. A wonderfully clever trio. Pretty girls, beautiful dresses, catchy songs, sparkling dancing. Miss Ruth Goodwin is a singer with a voice of rare charm and mellow tone, and her rendition of popular ballads is pleasing. Glenn and Dale are two clever singers of character songs in costume. Their act has a novel close and includes special scenery.

Pictures for Today Only

Our two part feature picture is "Packer Jim's Guardianship," a biographical drama being a story of the West in its early days.

"A Reformation Delayed," is a heart gripping Lubin drama.

"The Little Trespasser," Vitaphone and "Only a Country Girl," Kalem, are two comedies worthy of the name.

GALLINGER PRESENTS SEVERAL PETITIONS

In the United States Senate Mr. Gallinger presented the petition of Eugene L. Aldrich, of Keene, praying for the enactment of legislation to prohibit interstate commerce in the product of child labor, which was referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

He also presented the memorial of A. Sharpe, of Wolfboro, remonstrating against an increase in armaments, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented the petition of Albert D. Carter, of Tilton, praying for the imposition of a duty on dyestuffs, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented the petition of James L. McConaghy, of Manchester, praying that increased appropriations be made for the maintenance of the Bureau of Education, which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson of Hyness, N. Y., are passing a few days in this city.

HEADLINE ACT SCORED HIGH AT THE COLONIAL

COLONIAL PROGRAM PRESENTING EXCELLENT VAUDEVILLE FOR FIRST THREE DAYS OF THIS WEEK.

Another fine vaudeville bill opened this week at the Colonial Theatre when a single, a double and a trio were the program. All three acts are of the headline quality and last evening's performance was on a par with the standard set by the management.

Miss Ruth Goodwin proved a pleasing attraction with her presentation of four fine vocal selections. Her great range and excellent quality made a fine impression on the audience.

Glenn and Dale were well received and their success, especially in the tragic burlesque number, was acknowledged by all. Both the lady and gentleman are clever dancers and their act would be a hit on any stage in New England. Their closing number was one of the really funny pieces of stage business the city has yet seen.

Canill, Goss and Clifton, in their classy singing and dancing act were far ahead of many of the similar acts seen here in the past. Both of the girls are pretty and their dancing was pleasing. Mr. Canill as a dancer, proved to be a feature performer.
